Myron Barnum, Paul Seavey and Albert Balford were at Old Orchard, Sunday. Myron did not take the wings of the morning but for a substitute enjoyed an afternoon ride in the airship piloted by Harry M. Jones the army aviator. Paul was to do the same but a strong headwind caused the ride as the street level. Albert played safe and neutral and the heavy looking on minus any high thoughts. Passenger Barnum was incased in a straight jacket and then strapped fast to the seat. The ride was a success, but a slight accident caused a return to the airport of beginning for repairs. During the long wait while Jones tinkered about the mechanism, Myron sat on an exhibition before the crowd. "Turn this wing and you get lift your life," said the aviator. "Turn this wing and you get lift your life," said the aviator. The fiery ordeal was broken when a minute journey at the rate of one minute per hour was made. Decorate Saturday
Saturday being Dollar Day, it is the desire of those interested, that every one who possibly can, decorate and put out flags for the day and join in the spirit of the occasion and help to make it a big success by showing that the town is fully awake to the efforts being made for Dollar Day.

A smash occurred on the Paris street corner Friday afternoon when Chas. V. Chick's Hudson driven by Hubert Downey and Murray Russell's Cleveland ran into his daughter, Florence, at the wheel came together. Downey was on a business trip to South Paris station while Miss Russell was proceeding leisurely from that town to Norway. According to reports both wanted to pass on the right side, and in the mixup and dodging, the cars bumped. The Hudson lost the spokes from the front wheel, the steering gear was bent and minor injuries sustained. The Russell car received the brunt of the attack and after stalling against a wayside post, was towed into a garage. Everything has been settled satisfactorily.
It is expected Bethel will play the Norway town team at the fair grounds, Thursday afternoon at 2:30. This will be a Dollar Day special and some lively happenings may develop. Norway 4; Bethel 2
It required 10 innings to settle the argument at Bethel, Wednesday afternoon when Billy White's Norway town team went on against the strong Bethelites. Bacon performed in the box for Norway and held the hard slugging Bethels to a pair of hits. Gaskell, the colored twirler kept Norway down to two singles until the tenth. Haskell landed hard on a drive, Trafton drew a pass and Shepard's oak club hit the pair across for the winning run. Bacon closed the Bethel's chances in the tenth with three strikes out.

Catholic Lawn Party
The grounds of St. Catherine's rectory were prettily decorated Wednesday afternoon and evening for the lawn party held under the auspices of the Catholic church with Rev. C. J. Cassidy in charge.
The sale opened early in the afternoon with the ladies of the parish busily engaged in arranging the home for the party. A large patronage. After tea the rush for fancy articles and refreshments kept every worker on the move until a late hour.

The grab bag coaxed many trickles from the children while their elders visited the eyeful teller impersonated by Mrs. Ralph Cole.

The day was ideal and another Red Letter day was added to the records. On the arrival of the "boys," a bountiful supper was served, consisting of baked beans, biscuits, cucumbers, beet pickles, fruit and tuna salads, lemon and custard pies, doughnuts, coffee, salted peanuts and confectionery. Later, the president, Harry P. Jones, called the meeting to order and records of the last meeting with the happenings of the year were read. Officers were elected with president, Lee M. Fred says the critter, after one searching glance, leaped into the dense woods and disappeared. We failed to learn the time made by Frederick on his dash for civilization. This meeting took place near an old camp on the Gammon lot, far from the Harrison road. The animal was the real thing decorated with black and gray spots and embellished with bob tail.

TRUTH TRIUMPHS

Norway Citizens Testify for the Public Benefit.

A truthful statement of a Norway citizen, given in his own words, should convince the most skeptical about the merits of Doan's Kidney Pills. If you suffer from backache, nervousness, sleeplessness, urinary disorders or any form of kidney ills, use a tested kidney medicine.

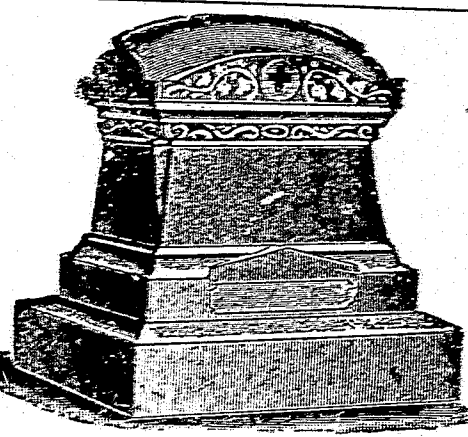

A Norway citizen tells of Doan's Kidney Pills.

Could you demand more convincing proof of merit?

C. E. Bradford, prop. of laundry, Main street, Norway, says: "For some time I had a dull pain through the small of my back, together with a tired feeling. I couldn't rest well. When a friend advised me to take Doan's Kidney Pills, I got a supply at P. P. Stone's Drug Store. After I used two boxes, the pains and other symptoms disappeared and there was a great improvement in every way. I have had no kidney trouble since." (Statement given April 30, 1912).

On June 6, 1916 Mr. Bradford added: "I still have confidence in Doan's Kidney Pills as it hasn't been necessary for me to use a kidney medicine since I took them."

Birthday Ride

On August 14th occurred the seventy-ninth birthday of one of Otisfield's most honored citizens, Mrs. Susan E. Foster.

On July 9th Mr. Foster enjoyed her second automobile trip, going to Bridgton Center, Summit Springs and returning home by way of Bolster's Mills. This date was chosen instead of Aug. 14th, her real birthday, because of the fine weather conditions and a desire to avoid showers so likely to occur the latter month.

Mrs. Foster and her daughter, Clara, have lived in her present home forty-seven years, coming here in 1872. For many years she was actively engaged in dressmaking, but during the last few years she has devoted most of her time to the care of her hens and her garden.

Mr. Dyer, who so carefully drove the car for this enjoyable trip has been engaged for the ride next year. May the coming year be filled even to overflowing with good things which she so richly deserves.

Frank Latulip and wife and Elmer Latulip and wife and Mrs. Rose Edwards visited Mrs. A. S. Ames and family last Sabbath.

George Hoyt is at work at Webb's Mills in care for John Symonds making shooks.

The Velvet tin is twice as big as shown here

I F ever men are "Tom" and "Bill" to each other, it's when good pipes are a-going. If ever good pipes go their best, 'tis when Velvet's in the bowl.

For Velvet is a mighty friendly smoke. Kentucky Burley is the leaf that Nature made for pipes. Wholesome and hearty, honest as the day. And Velvet is that same good Burley leaf brought to mellow middle age.

For eight long seasons Velvet "meditates" in wooden hogsheads, throwing off the rawness of "young" tobacco—truly "ageing in the wood." Out Velvet comes—cool, calm and generous—the tobacco Nature made good, kept good and made better.

Velvet's sweetness is the sweetness of good tobacco, not "put on" like "frosting" on a cake. Its mildness comes from natural ageing, not from having the life baked out. Its fragrance is true tobacco fragrance, not a perfume. And Velvet makes an A Number One cigarette. Roll one.

As good old Velvet Joe says:

"Fill yo' heart with friendly thoughts,
Yo' mouth with friendly smoke—
An' let the old world wag."

OXFORD FARMERS PROGRESSIVE

Reports from the Oxford county agent

the University of Maine agricultural extension service indicate a season of activity and prosperity among the farmers in that county. Oxford leads all the counties of the state in the number of sweet corn canning factories, but its product of corn is not confined to the canning varieties. Very many of the dairy farmers are raising their own flint corn for feed and the silage crop is also abundant this year.

The quality of Oxford's apples has given that county international fame. Her average crop in a normal year is about 600,000 barrels. In some of the orchards the apples run from four to four and one-half bushels to the tree. The average yield in the State is about one and one-half bushels.

George A. Traston of Norway, the oldest of the county agents in terms of service, has been in charge of extension work there since December, 1912. His experience as assistant state entomologist and assistant state horticulturist, and later with the Maine experiment station at Highmoor, especially adapted him for service among the orchardists of Oxford county.

The work has progressed wonderfully under his supervision. He is interested in the sales and as well as the growing end, of the fruit business. The growers' associations, of which there are six in the county, find in him a ready helper and shrewd adviser.

Oxford apple growers are very progressive and more systematic in their spraying than are those in any other section of the state. About half of them sell their product through associations directly to the commission houses and wholesalers, while the others dispose of their fruit in the orchards to local buyers at a price fixed before the picking time. The average price received by the mutual associations is 25 to 50 cents per barrel higher than the market, regardless of whether the season's crop is great or small.

We hear and read much about the wonderful organization of the Hood River apple growers in Oregon, but Oregon has nothing on Oxford county in the matter of cooperative handling and marketing of high class apples.

At the farmers' week course of lectures and discussions at the University of Maine last spring, some one asked Manager Conant of the Oxford Bears, why it is that we can't buy Oxford McIntoshes on the fruit and fruit stands, but have to be content with Oregon vinegars.

"Well, you see we can't grow enough apples in Oxford county to supply the whole world—not yet—so we sell our goods where we can get the highest prices, and that happens to be in Liverpool," was Mr. Conant's convincing reply.

The association ships its apples directly across the Atlantic without their having to be examined on this side by buyers' agents. The association brand is a guarantee of their quality. Often the drafts in payment are received by the individual shippers before the apples have reached destination. Thousands of barrels of Oxford apples shipped to Europe last winter netted $9.80 per barrel, and one lot, $11.80. But that was just after the epidemic, a big consignment of Oxford fruits being included in the first cargo out of Boston, Nov. 11.

Gravensteins, Wealthies and McIntoshes are the fall apples in which Oxford county growers specialize for export and Baldwin, Northern Spies and the Ben Davis in winter. The Wealthy is an especially good shipper and gets across a head of all the Virginia apples except the August Red, the Liveland Strawberry and the Rome Beauty, the last mentioned variety leaving the Virginia orchards before it is really ripe.

Livestock goes well with orcharding and Oxford county is looking well after its animals. With plenty of good early pastures and a fine quality of hay on its hill farms the country is making money out of cattle. The number of purebreds is gradually increasing and the unproductive cows being eliminated.

Swine and poultry are also raised with profit. The swine are given wide range and the self-feeders are generally used. One woman in Buckfield made a profit of $1481.88 last winter and spring, despite the high cost of feeds. She keeps all accurate account of costs and receipts. Her highest month's profit was $590.54 in May.

Boys and girls agricultural club work comes in for large share of public interest. The total enrollment in the clubs is less this year than last but those enrolled are pledged to finish their projects. There will be two county contests this year, the first in Rumford, Oct. 3 and the other in Norway, Oct. 11.

POTATO TROUBLES IN MAINE IN 1919

About the middle of July both the Experiment Station and the State Department of Agriculture began to receive complaints from Aroostook County relative to the condition of the potato crop in certain fields. These came from both the users and the makers of fertilizers. In consequence of these reports the Director and the Plant Pathologist of the Maine Agricultural Experiment Station and Chief of the Bureau of Department, together with several other people, made a ten day tour of Aroostook County studying the condition of the potato fields. While the major portion of the crop was in a very satisfactory condition, especially considering the unusually dry weather of June, large areas where certain makes of fertilizer had been used were found to be in bad shape. On some fields the stand was almost a complete failure, raging from this up to a fairly good stand of fairly good sized plants. Naturally no definite experiments had been planned with these particular fertilizers but in getting at the history of the operations, it was possible to work out a fairly good series, practically as good as though an experiment had been definitely planned. That the loss was due to the fertilizer was clearly established on several farms where the same fertilizer was used in varying proportions ranging from 2000 pounds per acre down to no application whatsoever. For example, one man by applying a ton to the acre, but later when he still had ten acres to plant discovered that the fertilizer was running short, and shut down the amount that the planter would deliver. The final two acres were planted without fertilizer. Where one ton per acre was used there was practically no stand. Where he began reducing the amount applied the stand began to improve until the final part where no fertilizer was used a perfect stand was had. Incidents similar to this were found on various other farms.

The Company whose goods seem to be giving the largest and most uniform amount of trouble in any of the Country put out three formulas, one without any potash, one with 4 per cent and another with per cent of potash. Wherever the fertilizer which contained no potash was used a practically perfect stand was had. Where the 4 per cent goods was used in small amounts there was a reasonably good stand but when the application reached up to a ton per acre the stand was poor. With the goods carrying 8 per cent of potash, far more injury was observed when 1200 or 1500 pounds per acre was used than in the case of the 4 per cent goods. The deduction from the notes as taken on large numbers of fields indicated very clearly that it was the potash that was responsible for the trouble and not the nitrogen or the phosphoric acid.

Because of the war conditions, practically all of the potash which was used in American crops this present season were of American origin, although some Alsacian potash was available later in the season and went into some mixtures that were used in Maine. Of the American potash quite a large part were obtained from Searle's Lake, the waters of which contain considerable quantities of potash together with some borax. Searle's Lake potash was used exclusively by the four other companies where trouble with potato crop was found.

Naturally not a large amount of work has been done to determine the poisonous effect of boron which is the mineral that enters into borax. In 1918 the Indiana Experiment Station found poisonous results from the use of boron on corn and experiments made in England showed injurious effects from borax with wheat, barley and potatoes.

Probably more or less of Searle's Lake potash has been used in fertilizers in Maine in preceding years. If the poisonous trouble is due to the borax as is suspected, it would not be likely to be very noticeable with the ordinary moisture conditions. But June, 1919, after the potatoes were planted was particularly dry, there being less than an inch of rain instead of from 4 to 6 inches which commonly have in that month. Borax is easily water soluble and if there had been the usual amount of rain probably that would have dissolved out the borax and carried it far enough away from the roots of the plants so that the injurious effect would not have been noticeable. On one field after half of it was planted there came a heavy shower. The other half was planted later. There is a very good stand indeed on the part that was planted prior to the rain and almost a crop failure on the part that was planted after the rain.

The United States Department of Agriculture carry on at Aroostook Farm and on nearby farms in cooperation with the Experiment Station quite a large number of various kinds of potato studies.

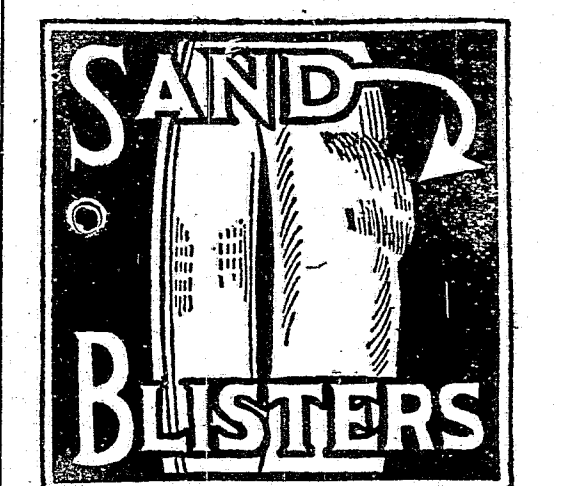

Among other things they are growing potatoes with different kinds of potash. Searle's Lake goods were used, as well as others, as a source of potash. But by the Department the Searle's Lake potash was mixed with the soil before the seed was planted with the result that they have a good stand and the potatoes appear normal with the exception that the edges of the leaves have the slight yellowing which seems to be characteristic of the boron poisoning.

There is little reason to fear that any permanent injury to the land from this application of fertilizer will result, although the crop is very severely reduced on many fields the present year. In addition to the fact that borax is water soluble and is likely to be dissolved and carried by the rains so that it would never again be in the soil in concentrated solution, the Department's experience above together with field observations and with the result that they are mixing the soil and fertilizer more completely together, and obtained a perfect stand all indicate that the borax will not remain in the soil or if it does thoroughly mixing the soil as would be done in plowing and fitting for the crops, together with the action of the rain water would make the land sweet and safe for future crops.

There are so many things involved in potato growing that definite conclusions can be reached only slowly at best and somewhat imperfectly. High grade fertilizers such as are universally used in potato growing in Maine of necessity carry strong chemicals. Applied as these are by the same machine that drops and covers the seed, there is a very imperfect mixture of the fertilizer with the soil. In wet soil these powerful water soluble chemicals are rapidly distributed by capillary action. In dry soil without following rain these chemicals remain practically in touch with the seed. While the evidence of field studies indicates that the potash and not the nitrogen or phosphoric acid is the source of the trouble, and while potash carrying borax seems to be the mischief maker, much remains to be done. Both the State Department and the Experiment Station are still gathering information and large amounts of laboratory and "greenhouse" work must be done before definite conclusions can be reached.

THE MOST DANGEROUS DISEASE

No organ of the human body is so important to health and long life as the kidneys. When they slow up and commence to lag in their duties, look out! Find out what the trouble is—without delay. Whenever you feel nervous, weak, dizzy, suffer from sleeplessness, or have pains in the back—wake up at once. Your kidneys need help. These are signs to warn you that your kidneys are not performing their functions properly. They are only half doing their work and are allowing impurities to accumulate and be converted into uric acid and other poisons, which are causing you distress and will destroy you unless they are driven from your system.

GROWING YOUNG

I sometimes hear somebody say, "Old man your hair is getting gray. Your figure is not trim and neat. Your bones rattle down the street. Time has gone and left a track. It's putting wrinkles in your face." But I'll not feel sad and forlorn. I'll not say die until I'm dead. I'll not sit down and sob in tears. Although I'm branded with the years. I will be jovial all the while. And greet the whole world with a smile. We live and learn the things of God. We tread the paths our fathers trod. The woods and fields and quiet glades. Where youths and gentle maidens strayed. We go forth by the morning light. And darkness gathers round at night. No matter where we look, we see. We're in a land of mystery— Winter, summer, autumn, spring— Each year the earth seems first and green. Father Time is stern and cold. The world grows young and old grow old. FREDERICK MARSHALL DAVIS. Copyright, 1919.

EMPIRE GROVE CAMP MEETING

For more than fifty years a Methodist Camp Meeting has been held, annually on the Empire Grove Grounds at East Poland, Me. There has been great meetings both in attendance and results. The forenoon are wholly given to that form of service. Such vital subjects as Evangelism, will be studied in a series of addresses by Dr. W. S. Mitchell of Buffalo N. Y. and Rural work and Christian Stewardship, by Dr. John Richards of Ithaca N. Y. Both of these are men of unusual ability and masters of the subject they discuss. Millions of men have fought and died—and millions have suffered and starved—to uphold the principle of justice. But justice in world-matters starts with justice to each—as well as to our own selves—in matters that permeate home life.

Are you just to your family—and to yourself—when you off the purchasing of a fine, new piano or player? If a piano—or need a better one than the one you now have—can afford the purchase—it is simply carrying out the duty of justice to your family and yourself to make the best use of it.

ON HEALTH

Look out for the unnatural weakness that indicates thinning of the blood and lack of power. It means that your bodily organs are starving for want of good nourishment; that the red corpuscles are fewer, unequal to demands of health. Hood's Sarsaparilla increases strength of the delicate and nervous, restores red corpuscles, makes the blood carry health to every part, creates an appetite.

If you need a good cathartic medicine, Hood's Pills will satisfy.

Note How the Essex Proves Endurance

The 10,000 Essex cars already in service have been so distributed that every com- munity now knows their distinctive per- formance.

Here for instance are people who have had wide motor car experience. They will tell you how they esteem the Essex. Its economy of operation and the fact that practically no attention is required to keep it in prime operation appeals to all.

As For Its Performance

If you haven't ridden in the Essex take the first opportunity to do so.

Come to us and we will give you the same kind of demonstration that has caused thousands to acknowledge Essex suprem- acy. Watch the way in which the Essex cars perform on the road. If it is at a street crossing when traffic is signaled to go ahead, observe how quickly the Essex jumps to the lead. The only car that beats it is another Essex with a better driver.

If you are on a narrow country road where an Essex signals its intention to pass another car, you will see how easily with its acceleration it can jump to the lead.

And It Will Do That Whenever Called On

Essex performance is acknowledged by

Build Now

The general opinion of those qualified to judge is that all building material will be higher instead of lower, and we believe this ourselves.

At this time we have a complete stock of all kinds of building material; but it is impossible to get shipments from the mills and in our opinion the situation in this respect will not improve, so we say BUILD NOW.

D. J. Johnson, the barber in Sampson's shop, left Norway for a position as cornetist with Chandler's Band Portland. M. W. Sampson has returned to his barber trade after collecting fares on the street cars since July 4. Edward Davis of South Paris takes the job.

Save Our Elm Trees

Norway is in danger of losing all of her beautiful Elm trees. The Elm beetle which has been playing such havoc in Massachusetts and parts of Maine, has been found in large numbers to be working on the Elms here in the village in nearly every section. The beetle resembles a striped squash bug, being about one-fifth larger. It is a great feeder and skeletonizes the leaves and causes them to drop. Should the trees be stripped of their leaves for three consecutive years the trees will die.

It is very important that something should be done at once. There is only one thing to do and that is to spray the trees with arsenate of lead. It is understood a power sprayer can be hired and a man sent with the machine to operate it.

This is a very important matter and should be investigated and attended to as soon as possible. No one wants to lose the beautiful trees on our streets and the time to rescue them is now before the beetles get too far along with their ravage.

Mrs. Walter Anderson and her sister Mrs. Ida Porter of South Paris spent several days in Berlin, N. H., the guests of their cousin, Charles Sanborn.

Whitman's office building early in July and has been confined to the house a large part of the time from that date.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Burnell and Mrs. True G. Morrill were at Gray Thursday evening and Friday, in company with Mr. Morrill's mother, started for New York to spend a week with True C. Morrill, who is attending Columbia University and who will return home with the party. They made the trip in Mr. Morrill's auto.

BASEBALL

Norway 18; Oxford 14.

Slugging the pill and hitting the dusty trail were features in the baseball hurricane let loose on the fair grounds, Saturday afternoon. Norway defeated Oxford in a spectacular conglomeration. Pitchers' former reputations were punctured and everybody hammered the horse hide right up to the finish. Neither side could claim a victory until the last put out. The game hung in the balance and teetered up and down according to the box artists ability to "buffalo" the batsman in a pinch.

Yes, sir, it was a beautiful show of heavy hitting with the out fielders working over time. Just the same stuff our laddies watched two generations ago, when the fritter fed corn huskers slammed the sphere over the pasture fence into the swamp. Seldom in modern baseball has two similar organized teams worked off the ripping stick action with trained shorters in the box. Biff and run was the slogan on both teams.

This was bargain day at Billy White's store, as he gave nearly three hours pleasure for the price of one game usually running an hour or thereabouts. Nobody worried as the shades of night approached, the full moon was not far behind Streaked Mountain when the last base runner passed the goal. Both teams gladly welcomed the ambulance and willingly gave up to the tender ministrations of Friends.

If there was one spectator who failed to draw his money's worth in quantity and quality, let him step forth as Father Carroll's motto, "A satisfied customer is the best advertisement," has the ring peculiar to genuine metal. This is the hope that catches 'em and holds tight if Larry is not mistaken.

Fandom turned out and the gate receipts settled the bills and left a few bones for the stocking leg. It was a busy game along the front line trenches where Norway and Oxford fraternized and nothing was censored. The rooters blew off a line of rainbow stuff which might electrify the sensitive ears of a pin super-normal not on speaking terms with baseball English. It was just give and take from both factions. Everybody appeared good natured, but the roasting several players had shunted on their siding should have proved a gall smasher.

No aid was spilled in this hand to hand—we should say mouth to mouth encounter and the hatchet went under the soil after the final curtain.

Certainly Billy and his broncho-busters drew one of the largest crowd in years. Has the flux, which has been working over time here in the past five years, joined the strikers and walked out? A wise guy once stumbled on dope that "history repeats itself." This is where we might, for the pendulum of public indifference has commenced to swing back and national sport fever is spreading locally. Let it go if clean baseball will become epidemic.

Norway retired Oxford, but this will prove only a temporary repulse. That little will hurt any more than the count and will return some day with knuck-out drops or a Dempsey sleep powder. They never did loaf on the job and have many times made Norway look like Egyptian mummies half starved.

Game Dissected

Oxford cut the cards in the opening chapter and drew three hits netting two runs. They raised the flood gates expecting to drown their opponents with a merry-go-round. Norway held a better hand and followed a single with a pair of two sackers from Shepard and Rowe. Bacon's single cleaned the bases, making five scores and producing a lead never overcome during the game.

In the second inning with two gone, S. Pratt salted down a two bagger into center, which brought Fuller home from second after his neat single through Traflet. Norway duplicated this performance when Traflet lifted a double into the right sector and Shepard landed safely from a dropped third strike. Rowe's single scored Traflet and Dorsey's fly into center, sent Shepard over the pan.

Oxford jarred down three planes in the third after their lineup had been shuffled somewhat upon the arrival of Hal Pratt and Pike. The fruit was gathered on singles by Walker, Pike, Martin and Hal Pratt. Norway once more expanded and lunged up five scores during their half, four being charged against Delano and one to Pike, who replaced the hard hit twirler. Purington, La Porte and Hasckell occupied the sacks when Traflet slammied away a two point buck for a clean up. He also sailed merrily in when Shepard singled. Rowe scored on a fielders choice preceding Bud Dunham's double in deep right field.

In the fourth Walker for Oxford was presented a dead easy trip with a pace to first, La Porte's wild sky scraper over second and a passed ball. Norway got blanked.

Oxford sneaked over two more runs in the fifth on a single by Pike and Delano's double. Norway found another zero. The sixth inning found Delano on the cipher end with Norway's fortunate possessor of two more scores. A five hit really did the trick until Pike oiled up that south paw and closed the argument.

Dorsey, who had been twirling a pretty steady game went into right field in exchange with Bacon. This young chap from West Paris was given an oration as he entered the box and made good right through.

The visitors during the seventh commenced to show their teeth. Hal Pratt started a scoring bee after securing the first sack by getting tapped on the hoof. Fuller sacrificed, S. Pratt copied it and Walker also did the same stunt. This sent across three runs. Norway made four with three safeties and Pike's free pass to La Porte.

Once again did luck forsake Oxford and another goose egg was laid in their eighth. Norway caught the fever and her pullet failed to produce any golden fruit. She also found a china egg in her nest.

In the ninth Oxford exerted every muscle in the team and along the side line to open something sensational. The score was against her 12-18. Two runs were best prizes to be drawn from Bacon and the crew behind, so the game went up without Norway seeking more scalps.

Tigers 2; Woodstock A. C. 1
Some doings in the Ward 8 jungle Saturday afternoon when Ward 8 Tigers held the well known Woodstock Athletic Club to seven hits and one run and squeezed a pair of tigers through the bars for a win on a narrow margin.

It was fast peppy baseball with every player tuned to concert pitch. Not a slider could be found in either outfit. Both Chase and LaFrance twirled in professional form, allowing the least possible safe hits. Chase for the W. A. C. handed out a peculiar delivery which completely baffled the Tigers and only two balls found the outfield. LaFrance was good sports and let it pass after a brief argument.

The large crowd was satisfied with the game featuring thrills and hair breadth escapes. Both teams passed out undiluted baseball and gave the Ward 8 Park a record for producing the first real game seen in town this season. The score:

An Internal Treatment For Piles (Hemorrhoids)

Gives absolute relief from all pain and suffering. Has never failed. Guaranteed.

Many people have become despondent because they have been led to believe that their case was hopeless and that there was no remedy for their case. Pile Remedy, the discovery of a clever Ohio chemist, that taken internally, passes unchanged through the stomach and intestines and thus reaching a field of trouble where, by its soothing, healing, aseptic action, it first allays and then by direct contact with the ulcers and piles causes them to heal and disappear forever.

It's positively marvelous how speedily its acts. Blessed relief often comes in two or three days, even in cases that have resisted all previously known treatments. Really wonderful results have been accomplished. It is one of the wonderful discoveries of recent years and anyone who is disappointed with its use can have their money refunded.

Just what Mr. E. M. Smith of 2313 Broadway, Lorain, Ohio, says:

"I gladly recommend Micro Remedy for Piles. There is no equal to it. I suffered for 18 years and tried everything that was recommended. I doctored for years and was a constant sufferer with bleeding piles. I took two bottles of Micro and was entirely cured. Any sufferer using it will never regret it."

All pharmacists dispense Micro or can get it for you on short notice. Surely it is worth the little trouble to obtain to be rid of piles forever.

IMPORTANT—What is known as itching piles are not piles in the true sense of the word, although this condition may accompany a true case of piles. For this condition Micro Pile Ointment has been prepared as in such cases it is not necessary to take the internal prescription.

$200,000 FIRE AT RUMFORD

Ten thousand cords of pulp wood, stored in a huge pile in the yard of the Oxford Paper Company, were destroyed Friday night in a most spectacular fire. The loss, which may reach $200,000, or even exceed that figure, is covered by insurance. Firemen from Rumford, Mexico, Lewiston and Portland fought for hours apparently without making the least impression on the blaze which shot sheets of flame scores of feet into the air and covered the city with a pall of smoke.

Though the loss is large, the fire lacked the serious phases which mark destruction of buildings—the usual attendant accidents and the loss of homes. In all other respects it was as serious as the loss indicates.

It generated a terrific heat—sufficiently intense to cause danger to the mill which at the nearest point is about 200 feet distant and to the station on the Rumford Falls branch of the Maine Central railroad, separated from the mill yard only by the tracks.

Every available stream was turned on the fire. When no more hydrants could be used, and when the water, already too low to permit of a large consumption, promised to be insufficient to cope with the blaze, help was summoned from Lewiston. Shortly before midnight it was also decided to ask for apparatus from Portland.

Never in Rumford's history have the firemen fought so difficult a fight. Summoned by an alarm about six o'clock they found the great mass of pulp wood a furnace. In gale headwind in spite of all they could do and the intensity of the heat forced them to keep at an unfavorable distance.

The fire quickly attracted a big crowd of spectators, but they like the firemen were kept at a distance by the heat, but there was plenty to see at this distance. The fire increased in volume each hour as it ate into the heart of the pile.

Flames leaped into the air and were carried by the shifting wind first toward the railroad property and again toward the big mill. The brief structure, though at first considered threatened, was considered out of danger by midnight.

When the fire was first discovered a shifter at once began the work of removing freight cars from the nearby railroad yard and all rolling stock was saved. There are no night trains beyond Rumford, so that the big number of lines of hose laid across the track did not cause any interference with traffic.

At 12-30 Saturday morning, the fire, once thought to be under control, had broken forth anew.

It was reported that the mill had caught fire but rumor was unfounded, as the precautions taken to protect this property were proving effective.

Early Saturday morning the mill was obliged to suspend operations. It was in no way hindered by the fire itself, but the water supply was insufficient for power demands.

Spontaneous combustion is advanced as a possible cause of the fire, but it was the general belief at Rumford that the blaze came from a spark from a passing engine.

It is estimated the big pile contained between 8,000 and 10,000 cords of wood, and the market value is variously placed at from $15 to $25.

FARM AND FOOD FOUNDATION

Industrial leaders of New England have organized in a determined stand to save the cost of living, since no problem looms so large in the minds of every individual at the present time. Every legitimate means to solve this momentous problem, successfully will be employed. That is why New England's foremost commercial leaders—merchants, bankers, merchants, have organized a movement to bring down high food prices, principally through establishing closer co-operation between farmer and consumer. Farmers and industrial leaders have joined hands in the fight against food profiteers and hoarders.

The Association is known as the New England Farm and Food Foundation, and already a considerable sum of money has been pledged to carry out its aim of reducing agricultural prices in this section, putting the farmer on his feet and saving the pocket of the ultimate purchaser.

It is recognized that, unfortunately, the farmer in the United States, and in New England in particular, has no efficient marketing organization, he has no proper means of distribution of his product, one of the reasons for high living costs. One advantage of this Foundation is to inject proper organization methods and proper distribution.

This will result, of course, to the mutual benefit of producer and consumer. An executive meeting of the Executive Committee of the Foundation's Board of Trustees was held yesterday afternoon at the Farmington home of H. W. Bird, president of the Executive Committee of Boston, who is the head of the Foundation. Here money pledges were made so that immediate action may be undertaken by the organization which they will support.

It was evident from the enthusiasm and sincerity displayed by the men, that the Foundation's movement is soundly endorsed, and the backing and efforts of these men—all eminent in their chosen fields of business or profession—will go far toward achieving the success they have determined upon.

Every one of the Committee, moreover, has signified his willingness to give considerable time, as well as funds, to the cause for which the Foundation stands. There is no doubt that, as the movement grows, and practical demonstration of its success are shown, New Englanders will rally to its cause. Any living creature deserves the support of every urban and rural member of the New England community.

Under the prevailing conditions there is considerable waste of food products. There are frequent gluts of certain commodities on some markets, while it may be scarce on others. The same commodities of other areas by markets, thus demoralizing the industry and discouraging production. There is considerable hoarding by profiteers, and consequent discouragement to the farmer.

Proper organization, therefore, under the Foundation's auspices, is considered the only means to prevent hoarding and eliminate profiteering. The New England Farm and Food Foundation will act as a regulating force upon these men.

The Foundation undertakes in every possible way to introduce and sustain co-operative buying by New England's consuming millions; in fact, every possible "short cut" will be utilized between the farmer and the direct consumer. The thousands of employees in mills and factories who are suffering most from H. C. L. will greatly benefit.

The Farm and Food Foundation will duplicate any work that has been done by similar existing organizations. Its principal duty will be to assist and reinforce the efforts of such bodies along practical lines of agricultural improvement, increased production, and economic distribution through the raising of funds and means to help the farmer.

Associations are at present handicapped by lack of finances. Thus the Farm and Food Foundations will not be in reality a directly operating organization. The National States Agricultural and Industrial Exchange committees, the National Farmers' Exchange, and others, will be part of the media through which the Foundation will operate.

One of the great difficulties of various like associations that have been inaugurated and have in many cases failed, and the greatest difficulty with the farmers themselves, have been due to their inability to obtain sufficient funds, and to secure adequate co-operation of men of business experience. It is to supply the necessary funds to apply this essential business knowledge in the farmers' interests and for the benefit of the consumers that the New England Farm and Food Foundation expects to accomplish the desired results.

It is a deplorable fact that agriculture in New England has been steadily declining during the past half century, despite the fact that it is the basic industry upon which every other industry depends, while our farming population, the younger element having abandoned the farms for the cities. At the present time the New England cities are largely dependent on the West and South for their food supply. The situation, it will thus be seen, is largely responsible for the increased cost of living for the New England people.

Some of the reasons why the New England farmer has lost out in competition with other farmers may be found to exist in the lack of scientific methods applied to farming, as compared with other industries. Again, due to inadequate purchasing, sales, or advertising agencies, agriculture has not benefited by efficient organization. Furthermore, possibly owing to these reasons themselves, farming has not been able to secure the necessary credit aids and facilities as have the other industries.

The Farm and Food Foundation intends to remove these causes of the decline in agriculture by assisting the farmer to organize farmers' exchanges and such other approved agencies as may be deemed expedient.

Penetrating the scientific methods of every industry, the farmer is to be aided in education along the lines of seasonal farming. Perhaps the most important result to be expected from the farmer's proper use of his product to the people themselves, by thus eliminating long-distance freight rates and the profits of the numerous middlemen who now handle the products of the farmer.

The banks of New England are to be urged by members of the Foundation to assist New England agriculture in every financial way. That the farmer has often been at a disadvantage owing to need of capital is a well-known fact, and readily available financial assistance will be of vital benefit to agriculturists.

Another feature of the Foundation will be to assist, whenever possible, young men to obtain an agricultural education and give them sufficient financial backing to start farming. By this and the other means already enumerated, the Foundation hopes, finally, to bring back under cultivation the five million acres of land in New England which are now lying idle. In addition, the Foundation will encourage and help in every way it can to re-establish and extend New England's live stock industry.

All of these measures the Foundation hopes to accomplish, not by itself alone, but in co-operation with or supplementary to the work of the associations which are attempting to bring about better farming results in this part of the country.

The list of officers, with the board of trustees of the Farm and Food Foundation, is really a "Blue Book" of New England business leaders—of men with a wide reputation as successful and thoroughly earnest workers. Regional W. Bird of Boston, president of the Plunkett Company, is president of the Foundation; while George A. Calliver, president of the American Writing Paper Company, Elyria, Mass., and Horace A. Moses, president of the Standard Paper Company, Milneburg, Mass., are vice-presidents. The treasurer of the Foundation is G. W. Wheelwright, treasurer of the G. W. Wheelwright Paper Company, Boston, Mass. The Foundation's secretary is John A. Sherley. There is a long list of trustees made up of the business men of New England.

Annual Anniversary and Dollar Day Sale

Two Sales in One, Making it a Double Opportunity Day at the Merchant Store

We cannot emphasize too strongly the wisdom of taking advantage of the notable values this sale offers. It is considered and a general opinion that merchandise is going higher not lower in price, making the savings greater. It is therefore practically certain that by holding these goods we could realize more out of them, but has been the custom for years for this store to hold an annual anniversary sale, and in the past two years of holding an Annual Anniversary and Dollar Day Sale the same day, inasmuch as we have the goods—many of them bought below the present market—we think it no more than fair to show our appreciation to our customers for the very liberal Patronage given us in the past year in a material way, viz:—by giving them this opportunity of securing STANDARD MERCHANDISE at LESS PRICES.
